LEGO® SERIOUS PLAY®

Warsaw

Are you:

- looking for new insights on your business
- Interested in exploring new opportunities
- Looking a way of getting people involved
- Interested in the Training in Designing and Facilitation with the LEGO® SERIOUS PLAY® method...

Do you want to facilitate LSP?

In short, the LEGO SERIOUS PLAY method is an innovativemethod designed to enhance innovation and business performance. The method is used in a wide ranging variety of organizational challenges including strategy development, mergers, team development and other demanding organizational changes. The LEGO SERIOUS PLAY method was developed at LEGO® in collaboration with leading researchers in strategy and organizational behaviour, merging the best from two worlds.

Method based on Research:

One of the most important research findings that underpin the LEGO SERIOUS PLAY® method and approach is 'hands-on/minds-on' learning, producing a deeper, more meaningful understanding of the world and its possibilities. This 'school of thought' is to a large degree developed by Seymore Papert of MIT. Other contributors to the research on 'serious play', learning and development are Mihaly Csikszentmihalyi and Lev Vygotski.

The training program meets the standards set by the Association of Master Trainers in the LEGO SERIOUS PLAY method.

For more information please visit the website.

The objectives with the Association of Master Trainers' facilitator training program are to provide the facilitators design and deliver the workshop successfully with the methodology. Facilitators will receive document of qualification upon satisfactory completion of the training.
